1. The Idaho Counselor's Licensing Board, through the Idaho Bureau of Occupational Licenses is responsible for licensure of counselors within the State of Idaho. State Licensure does not imply or constitute an endorsement of that counselor nor guarantee effectiveness of treatment.

2. Confidentiality

- a. Information provided by and to a client during therapy session is legally confidential if the counselor is a licensed counselor, or reasonably believed by the client to be so, and the communication was not intended to be disclosed to a third person, except persons present to further the interest of the client or participation under the direction of the counselor. If the information is legally confidential, the counselor cannot be forced to disclose the information without the client's consent.
- b. Information disclosed to licensed professional counselor is a privileged communication and cannot be disclosed in any civil or criminal court proceeding in Idaho without the consent of the client. However, under Idaho Rules of Evidence 517 (d), there is no privilege for the following acts:
 - Civil action, case or proceeding by one of the parties to the confidential communication against the other.
 - Proceedings for guardianship, conservatorship or hospitalization as to communication relevant to an issue in proceedings for the appointment of a guardian or conservator for a client for mental illness or to hospitalize the client for mental illness.
 - Child related communications - In a criminal or civil action or proceeding as to a communication relevant to an issue concerning the physical, mental, or emotional condition, of or injury to a child, or concerning the welfare of a child including, but not limited to the abuse, abandonment or neglect of a child.
 - Licensing Board proceedings under Idaho Code 54-3404. Contemplation of a crime or harmful act. If the communication reveals the contemplation of a crime or harmful act.

4. Therapeutic Approach

- a. I use group and individual educational techniques to help clients make positive changes in behavior. You will be participating in a group setting where you are required to conform to group rules, and will be discharged if you do not comply with group rules. You have the right to discontinue treatment at any time, but you should be aware there may be legal or other consequences for not completing a course of treatment.
- b. I also offer Internet-based counseling and classes for individuals who are experienced in using the internet, have access to the internet, and understand the risks of using the internet. Internet classes have certain risks and benefits much different than face-to-face counseling. Please click this link to access "Information and Informed Consent for Internet-based Clients."

5. Counselors are required to adhere to the Professional Code of Ethics adopted by the Idaho Counselor Licensing Board.
